Section 10A.2.02 Findings

Historically, starting in 1937, the production, possession, delivery, distribution and sale of marijuana have been illegal across the United States and in Indian Country. In 2012, Washington voters passed Initiative 502 ("I-502") which sets forth a regulated, state-licensed system allowing for the production, processing, and retail sale of marijuana, marijuana concentrates, useable marijuana, and marijuana-infused products for recreational purposes within the State. The State has further refined the laws which, along with the rules of the Board, attempt to accomplish the following priorities: preventing the distribution of marijuana to minors; preventing revenue from the sale of marijuana from going to criminal enterprises, gangs, and cartels; preventing the diversion of marijuana from states where it is legal under state law in some form to other states where it is not; preventing state-authorized marijuana activity from being used as a cover or pretext for the trafficking of other illegal drugs or other illegal activity; preventing violence and the use of firearms in the cultivation and distribution of marijuana; preventing drugged driving and the exacerbation of other adverse public health consequences associated with marijuana use; preventing the growing of marijuana on public lands and the attendant public safety and environmental dangers posed by marijuana production on public lands; and preventing marijuana possession or use on federal property.

In moving marijuana from a criminal framework to a civil/regulatory framework, the State no longer has jurisdiction over marijuana cultivation and sale in Indian country. At the same time, if the Tribe were to continue to criminalize marijuana, the Tribe would have a disparity between Tribal citizens and non-citizens, with little if any assistance from the State with criminal prosecution of non-citizens. In consideration of this jurisdictional gap, and after serious deliberation, the Tribe, as a sovereign nation, has determined that present day circumstances make a complete ban of marijuana within Indian country ineffective and unrealistic and has decriminalized its sale and possession in certain circumstances, as set out in this Title. At the same time, consistent with the priorities described above, the need still exists for strict regulation and control over the production, possession, delivery, distribution, sale, and use of marijuana in Indian country.

As such, and in furtherance of the collaborative approach pursued in its marijuana compact, the Tribe adopts the following statutory code provisions to provide a robust foundation for its regulatory program that protects the priorities described above.

Section 10A.2.03 Taxes

- A. There shall be a Tribal tax equal to at least 100 percent (100%) of the State tax that is in effect, at any given time, levied on all commercial marijuana activity.
- B. The Tribal tax shall be remitted to the Tribe on a quarterly basis.
- C. The Tribe will use the proceeds of such tax for essential government services.
- D. The Tribe may, in its discretion, allow an exemption from the Tribal tax in the following circumstances:
 - 1. For sales to the Tribe, Tribal enterprises, or Tribal citizens that occur in Indian Country of marijuana grown, produced, or processed within Indian Country;
 - 2. For activities that would otherwise be exempt from State tax under state or federal law; and,
 - 3. For medical marijuana products used in the course of medical treatments by a clinic, hospital, or similar facility owned and operated by the Tribe within its Indian country.

Tax Records: Appropriate tax records shall be maintained so, if the need arises, an auditor can verify that the above requirements have been met.
