2.00.07 General Principles

- a) Aiding and Abetting – Accomplice Liability

Any person who intentionally assists in or encourages the commission of an offense is guilty of commission of that offense. Adults who assist minors in the commission of an offense commit a separate offense defined in §2.0701 below.

- b) Attempts

~~Whenever some other section of this code specifically addresses an attempt to commit an offense, that more specific section shall be applied. When the issue of attempt is not specifically addressed, any person who attempts to commit an offense shall be punished under the next lower class of offense than the completed offense. If a Class C offense is attempted, the attempt is also a Class C offense.~~

A person who intends to commit a specific offense and performs any act that is a substantial step toward the commission of that offense shall be found guilty of attempt to commit that offense. A "substantial step" is conduct of the defendant which strongly indicates a criminal purpose. For purposes of sentencing, attempt is classified at the same level of offense as the offense that was attempted and carries the same sentence.

If the conduct in which a person engages otherwise constitutes an attempt to commit a crime, it is no defense to a prosecution of such attempt that the crime charged to have been attempted was, under the attendant circumstances, factually or legally impossible.

c) Capacity

Children under the age of six (6) years are incapable of committing a crime.

d) Conspiracy

Any person who intentionally agrees with another to commit an offense is guilty of conspiracy to commit that offense. Conspiracy is classified at the same level of offense as the offense that is the subject of the agreement.

e) Solicitation of an Offense

Any person who intentionally offers to pay or otherwise give a thing of value to another to encourage the commission of a crime or attempt to commit a crime commits the offense of solicitation of an offense. Solicitation is classified at the same level of offense as the offense that is the subject of the solicitation.

Chapter 2.01 Sentencing

2.01.01 General Conditions

The Tribal Court may sentence any person who has been convicted of a violation of a provision of this code to serve time in jail; to be placed under home detention; to pay a fine; to work for the benefit of the community; to treatment; to attend educational classes; and/or any other penalty as determined by the Court to be appropriate. No fine or time served shall exceed the maximum period set for the offense in this code. Any work done for the benefit of the community shall be done under the supervision of an authorized agent of the Tribe².

2.01.03 Determining Factors

In determining the character and duration of the sentence which shall be imposed, the Court shall take into consideration the previous conduct of the defendant, the circumstances under which the offense was committed, whether the offense was malicious or willful, whether the offender has attempted to make amends and the extent of the defendant's resources and the needs of his dependents and the needs of the victim's, if any. The penalties listed above are maximum penalties, which are intended to be imposed in extreme cases only.

For subsequent violations of the criminal laws of the Shoalwater Bay Tribe, the Court shall impose a sentence that is greater than the sentence previously ordered³.
